The Starting Point

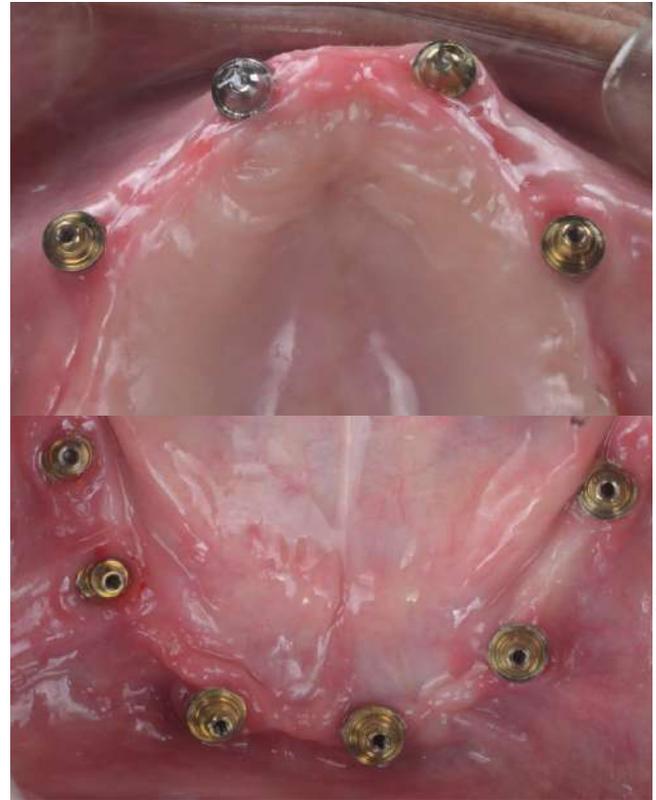

She walked in, frustrated and tired—her lower bridge had broken, and chewing had become a daily struggle. To make things worse, an upper tooth had fractured too. Eating was painful, and smiling felt incomplete. It was time to rebuild not just her teeth, but her confidence.

Treatment Done

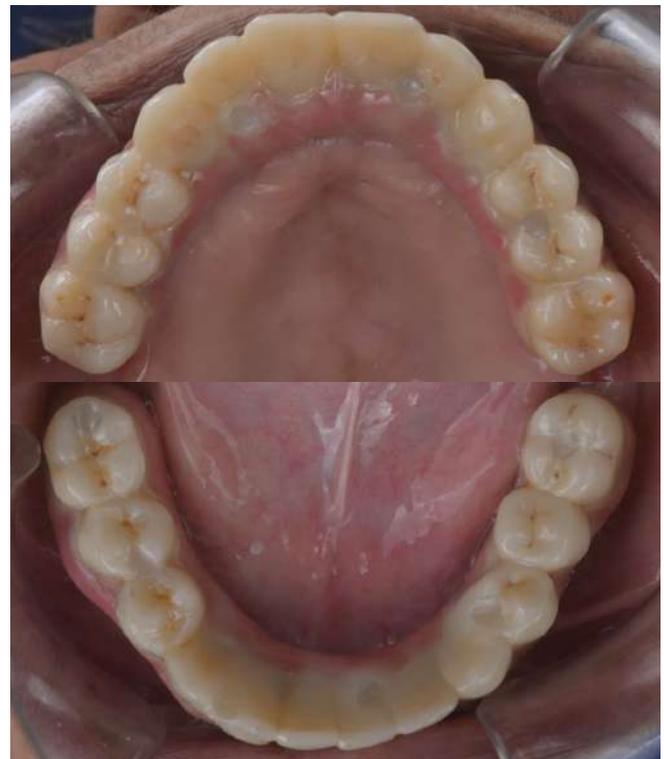

Dental Implants placement

Following the removal of teeth that couldn't be saved, dental implants were placed in both the upper and lower jaws

Temporary Prosthesis In Place

Temporary teeth were attached to the implants to help with healing and allow the implants to integrate properly.

Final Prosthesis In Place

Once healing and integration were complete, permanent fixed teeth were placed on both the upper and lower jaws.
